Press release 2.5.2017

The 72nd edition of the Musical Weeks in Ascona celebrates Russia - home of grand composers and outstanding musicians. With many illustrious guests from the St. Petersburg Philharmonic to MusicAeterna and from Ashkenazy to Temirkanov and Currentzis. Advance ticket sales start today.

ASCONA, SWITZERLAND, 2 MAY 2017 - The Musical Weeks in Ascona, the oldest classical music festival in Ticino, celebrates a 72nd edition from 4 September to 17 October 2017.

The total thirteen festival concerts offered take place at three attractive venues: the Collegio Papio di Ascona church for the chamber concerts, the church of San Francesco (church of St. Francis) in Locarno for the symphonic concerts and the Sopracenerina hall for the two matinee performances in the Début Series that presents young talents on the brink of great international careers.

Directed for the fifth consecutive year by Francesco Piemontesi, presentations in Ascona this year emphasise on the music world of Russia - home to great composers and acclaimed performers, celebrated above all for their expressive and virtuous qualities.

A remarkable musical programme paying tribute to memorable Russian composers such as Stravinsky, Glazunov and Schnittke; the magic Concerto No. 1 for piano and orchestra by Tchaikovsky, Pictures at an Exhibition by Mussorgsky and Shostakovich's Ninth symphony.

Guests include ensembles and musicians among Russia's most brilliant and interesting in recent years; Yuri Temirkanov conducts the prestigious St. Petersburg Philharmonic Orchestra (Friday, 15 September), Vladimir Ashkenazy conducts the Orchestra della Svizzera italiana (OSI) on 29 September and the young and acclaimed maestro Theodor Currentzis who, together with a choir and the MusicAeterna orchestra, opens the 72nd edition of the Musical Weeks of Ascona on Monday, 4 September.

Additional programme highlights see the Orchestre National de France conducted by the French conductor of Russian origin, Emmanuel Krivine, and Bertrand Chamayou at the piano (Friday, 8 September); the famous German violinist Isabelle Faust and Andreas Staier at the fortepiano (Monday, 2 October), along with the Brazilian pianist Nelson Freire, who performs in a recital at the closing of the festival on Tuesday, 17 October.

Of great interest is the first-ever performance in Switzerland (Friday, 6 October) by the Orchestra Aurora; a young British ensemble playing the entire repertoire by memory, conducted by the young star Nicholas Collon.

True to its long and prestigious history, the Musical Weeks in Ascona propose a thrilling and balanced programme that provides space for great names in world-class music while maintaining a vital link to the territory. As to date, mainstay of the festival is the Orchestra della Svizzera italiana which, as well as Ashkenazy, presents Reinhard Goebel as conductor and the Russian trumpeter Sergei Nakariakov (Monday, 11 September), while maestro Diego Fasolis conducts the Coro Radiotelevisione Svizzera and I Barocchisti in a welcome tribute to Monteverdi 450 years after his birth.

For his part, Francesco Piemontesi will perform on 15 September with Temirkanov and the Philharmonic Orchestra of St. Petersburg in the first concert of Tchaikovsky - and on Monday, 25 September in a tribute to Liszt, composer of Années de Pèlerinage (years of pilgrimage): Anno 2, Italia.

New features designed to further enhance the overall quality of the offer comprise a new graphic line for the festival and minor interventions in support of improving the acoustics and lighting, particularly at the church of St. Francis.

Tickets (the prices of which vary depending on the category and concert from CHF 20.00 to 140.00) are available as of 2 May from Ascona Locarno Turismo counters and at all Ticketcorner sales points in Switzerland. Advance online ticket sales at www.settimane-musicali.ch.
